Kurt Fearnley

Kurt Fearnley is a world-beater in and out of his racing wheelchair. The three-time Paralympic Gold Medallist has won marathons all around the world, including the prestigious New York, London and Chicago marathons multiple times. Raised in the small country town of Carcoar, Kurt Fearnley has always been determined. Being born without the lower portion of his spine has never held him back, from backyard games of football to crawling along the Great Wall of China, he always has a go.

Turning his attention to wheelchair sports in his teens, Kurt quickly became a world beater. He started his career with two Silver medals at the 2000 Sydney Paralympic games, before making his winning breakthrough at the 2004 Athens Paralympics with Gold in the 5000m and marathon races. He solidified his standing as a Paralympic great by defending his Gold medal at the Beijing Paralympics and continues to and supported a range of initiatives to support these areas – developing a Women in Leadership program at Orica, co-founding the Equal Futures Project in the Hunter Valley and the Hunter Valley Diversity Awards. Kirsten has a PhD in Chemistry a BSc (Hons) and has completed an MBA from Deakin University in 2006.

excel over a range of distances on both the track and road. At the London 2012 games, Kurt won Silver on the track and again finished in the marathon reckoning with a Bronze medal result.

In 2009 Kurt crawled Papua New Guinea's Kokoda Track and was a member of the 2012 Sydney to Hobart Yacht Race winning crew aboard Investec Loyal. In 2014 Kurt released his autobiography, "Pushing the Limits". Kurt is a passionate disability advocate and devotes himself to a number of national charitable initiatives.
